Student Clinic Code of Ethics

As a student of the Australian Learning Group I shall abide by the following Code of Ethics:

DO'S

- I shall at all times keep the standard of my professional work as high as possible and if a client's problem lies beyond my help, I will recommend relevant treatment.
- I shall endeavour to improve upon my technical skill and professional standards whenever possible.
- I shall conduct myself professionally at all times so as to comply with the common standard of morals and decency and not be guilty of illegal, immoral or improper relations with any client sexually or otherwise.
- I shall always treat the client with utmost respect and care to the best of my ability and ensure that priority is given to the client's comfort and welfare.
- I shall take a complete case history prior to treatment and regard any such information as strictly confidential unless there is some overriding legal and moral obligation to the contrary.
- I shall ensure that any equipment I use, mechanical, electrical or otherwise, is safe and does in no way pose any kind of danger or threat to any client under my care.

DON'TS

- I shall never at any time render my professional services for any purpose other than for the wellbeing of my clients.
- I shall never publicly slander a member of my profession or of any allied professional nor do any action or say anything that will discredit and/or have a detrimental effect on the art of massage.
- I shall never attend a client whilst under the influence or effect of drugs, alcohol, sedatives or whilst sick with a contagious disease.

Student Clinic Health & Safety Guidelines

The health and safety responsibilities of massage therapists are taught in more depth in the “Safe Work Practices” module at the School. However, for student clinic, students must adhere to the following:

General Health & Safety

- Students are permitted to complete only one student clinic on any given day
- If students have skin breaks they must use an occlusive bandage (available from admin)
- Students must wash their hands thoroughly (covering all surfaces between fingers etc. and up to and including the elbows) before and after each client – see hand washing procedure at end of your course notes
- Students should not be massaging in student clinic if they are sick with a contagious disease or condition. (Please endeavour to give 24 hours’ notice to admin staff if you will not be able to attend student clinic for any reason. If you give less than 24 hours’ notice penalties apply)
- To protect your own health, you should not be massaging clients with contagious conditions either. If you have reason to believe a client has a condition that may pose a threat to your own health, approach your student clinic supervisor immediately for guidance
- Where there are any visible lesions or wounds on a client’s skin, students should seek advice from the clinic supervisor
- Take care with clients getting on and off the table, provide assistance if required

Staying Alert to Health and Safety Hazards

If students can see any hazards to the health and safety of anyone in the student clinic (including themselves) they should report them immediately to the clinic supervisor.

Examples may include things like:

- Someone gets blood on the towels for some reason
- A student notices a wobbly leg on a stool
- Someone has laid towels or clothes directly over a heater in the room

The following excerpt has been taken from the Safe Work Practices module at the school regarding manual handling of clients in wheelchairs:

Clients in a Wheelchair

Clients in wheel chairs may also attend your clinic to receive a massage. Many wheelchair bound clients will elect to be massaged in their chair, however, some may prefer to be massaged on the massage table. Some clients in wheel chairs are able to move themselves in and out of the wheelchair, and some don’t have the strength or ability to do so.

If your client is not able to move themselves in or out of the wheel chair, then it is essential that you have another person with you to help them onto the table. Do not attempt to lift by yourself as this could lead to serious injury, for both you and the client. Therefore, when booking in a client who is in a wheelchair, it is best to determine if they are able to move themselves or not. If they are not able to, then you will need to ensure you have another person available to help you when the client comes in.

If a client is able to move themselves on and off the massage table, they will know their own ability and limitation. However, they may need some assistance. When assisting the client on and off the massage table be sure to follow the main rules of correct lifting – lift with your knees, keep your back straight, grip the load correctly and keep the weight close to your body.

Student Clinic Privacy Guidelines

The details of the Privacy Act are taught in more depth in The Massage Business module at the School. However, for student clinic, students must adhere to the following.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Any details collected by students during a student clinic massage (on case history form), and any information disclosed verbally to a student by a client during a student clinic massage must be treated as strictly confidential. This means that students must never discuss information about their clients with any third party (except the clinic supervisor) – i.e. you cannot tell your friends, or anyone else, anything about your clients, even who your clients were. Also note that you must never take a client's case history form away with you or copy information from it about a client.

GAINING CONSENT FROM NEW CLIENTS

New clients to student clinic are all given the following information in a letter they read before you massage them:

PROTECTING YOUR PRIVACY

Our students will need to collect and record information about you and your health before your massage. This will be done in a classroom setting within earshot of other clients and students. If you are not comfortable with this scenario, you are recommended to see a qualified practitioner at the Sydney CBD Massage Clinic where you will be in a private room.

Information will be collected to enable students to determine the best massage for you and to check for any reasons why they shouldn't massage you. Please be aware that personal details are collected mainly to verify your identity and for us to be able to contact you if we need to for any reason. Your record will be stored in the school's files and will be handled by admin staff in the course of their duties. You have the right to see your records at any time. If you would like a copy of our full Privacy Policy please see our admin staff.

COLLECTING INFORMATION

- Only collect information relevant to providing the massage treatment.
- Ensure you have the client's permission to collect their personal information i.e. check that they are OK with you taking down their details and case history.
- Collect information "lawfully, fairly and not obtrusively" (this is wording from the privacy information of the government web site www.oaic.gov.au). Do not intrude on the personal affairs of the client unnecessarily.

Clients have the right to access their case history information if they want to. If a client wishes to access their information, advise the supervisor or administration, and they will liaise with the client regarding this.

PROTECTING CLIENT PRIVACY WITHIN STUDENT CLINIC

Whilst giving a massage ensure the client case history form is kept in a location where it is protected from loss or unauthorized access. For example, place forms in a location where they cannot be easily seen by other people in the student clinic and where they will not be accidentally picked up by others. Keep an eye on your case history form during treatments. Hand all completed client case history forms to student clinic supervisor upon completion.

You can research your privacy obligations on the internet at www.oaic.gov.au for the federal legislation and www.lawlink.nsw.gov.au for the state legislation in NSW.
